Other engineers and foremen who have recently left this vicinity after having completed their work here are Charles Sells, Marcus Hanna, Carl Lowe and W. Beach. Bob Householder, M. M. Powell and other children are flowers. It's better to have children than flowers—and most Everglades do!

The bean grower won't know how many kinds of insects there are until he tries to grow flowers. One of the most common kinds of bug in the world except bed bugs.

As I work on the lawn and with the flowers I notice how the weeds, the grass and the flowers fight for existence. How they struggle to maintain themselves, and to perpetuate the species. You rub at an obnoxious grass with a hoe, but if even the tiniest root is left in contact with the soil it lives. When a plant is injured and is to die, it makes a supreme effort to produce its seed before it passes on. All are forever reaching up to the sun, for their place in the sun, that they may live and reproduce themselves.

When I pause and rest myself on the hoe handle I reflect on the kinship of all living things. Kinship, that's all, for there are worms and kinfolks as well as good ones. It doesn't make an optimist of me—I keep on being a realist. I think things degenerate or improve or are set in their ways. Some insects are just like they were thousands of years ago.

Treasury "Watchdog" Is Washington's Most Popular Man

In Washington, D. C., where "yes men" abound, there is a "no" man who has acquired the reputation of being the most popular man in the Capital. He is John Raymond McCarli, "Watchdog" of the U. S. Treasury.

McCarli's duty as comptroller-general is to keep greedy hands out of the public exchequer, and it doesn't matter whether the item involved is a penny or a million dollars; if the shadow of a doubt clouds the validity of an appropriation or an expense account, McCarli goes into his favorite exercise—turning thumbs down.

Government workers high and low have dubbed him the "tin pot satrap," "red tape despot" and "Uncle Sam's hired miser," but the acrimony behind the titles really compliments McCarli.

It keeps his split-second ability to deny and deny to his public 100,000 taxpayers. A popular, half-fellow-well-met, generous type of man would be hardly the kind of individual the people would want in that post.

(C) Blackwell

EXALTED government officials have found McCarli an "old man's" President Coolidge did, for instance, when McCarli refused to sanction a presidential order converting rivers and harbors funds to the relief of tornado-stricken Florida.

And McCarli cracked down on Hugh Johnson with a firm "no" when the NIRA general wanted to buy Ford trucks from government bidders because of Henry Ford's coolness toward the Blue Eagle.

The fact that President Roosevelt was understood to be supporting Johnson in this matter failed to deter the Treasury guardian.

When august members of the of years ago—the World War, had to dig down in his jeans to pay a Pullman fare which McCarli "disallowed" because the officer could produce no corresponding voucher.

And scores of disgruntled federal employees who tried to get expense money or allowances for "dependent" relatives, gargantuan lunches, exorbitant tips, and personal junkets, learned to their dismay that McCarli was not above keeping an eagle eye on the smaller items.

Once, for instance, he added to the salary of the nation when he fought a railroad for months over a 35-cent freight item.

McCarli doesn't worry about the enemies he creates. He doesn't have to. When President Harding appointed him to the job in 1921, the term of office was fixed at 15 years with no possibility of removal except by impeachment.

So John Raymond McCarli can afford to smile tolerantly at the derisive nicknames bandied about the Capital. His job is safe until 1936.

McCarli, a quiet, kindly man, was born in 1893, a McCook, Neb., attorney. His first came to Washington in 1914 as secretary to Senator George Norris. Four years later, he became executive secretary of the National Republican Congressional Committee.

Then, during the Harding campaign, he was in charge of the Republican Speakers Bureau. For this work he was rewarded with the comptroller-generalship.

Unlike many other staunch Republicans, McCarli has remained on the job despite the recent Democratic landslide. Which, as lightened taxpayers believe, is as it should be.

equal those of C. B. Lozier, from whom my neighbor Mrs. Beck got some plants.

There is an active Garden Club in Belle Glade; no doubt many of them have nice beds of flowers that I have not seen.

In Pahokee last week I noticed that Grover Folow was tending rose bushes; she seems to have graduated out of the zinnia class into the rose class. Betsey Lebel Harbor and Clewiston is Seminole Farms; I have not been there for more than a year, but I understand John Mowry has acres of roses.

Mrs. and Mrs. A. Kaltenbrunner at Pahokee used to be interested in flowers; I don't know whether their enthusiasm has held out or petered out.

There is a good deal of hard work to maintaining a lawn and tending flowers. Shiftless negroes carelessly tread on plants, dogs run over them, and children break them down. But children are more important than flowers—indeed, children are flowers. It's better to have children than flowers—and most Everglades do!

SHOW ADMISSION WILL BE OLD-TOY

Thanksgiving Day Show At Prince Theatre To Be Given As Aid To Santa

Merry Old Chris Kringle will find out within the next few weeks that he has a host of friends in the Everglades who are willing to help him fill the empty stockings of needy children on Christmas eve. Plans have been perfected by the management of the Prince theatre in Pahokee to give a show on Thanksgiving day and admission will be a toy. The toys will be repaired by the Boy Scouts and given to the needy for Christmas.

The management of the theatre has not as yet announced the name of the show to be given Thanksgiving day but a special showing will be made for the children of the community. Each child who desires to attend will be admitted if he delivers to the front door of the theatre a toy. If the toy happens to be a little tattered or torn that will be all right, too, for it was stated, since the Boy Scouts are going to overhaul and repair all toys before they are passed out to the needy.

Experiment Station To Give Sprouted Chayotes

R. N. Lobdell, entomologist at the Everglades Experiment station near Belle Glade, brought to the Everglades News office yesterday three of the most beautiful Chayotes that have been produced in this section. The fruit looks exactly like a cross between a bell pepper and a squash, if you can imagine the combination. The fruit was thoroughly matured and ready for the frying pan.

Mr. Lobdell stated that next week the station would have several of the sprouted fruits ready for distribution to those who care for them. As many as three will be given each person who calls, Mr. Lobdell stated.

Britons' Flight New Milestone on Road To Transpacific Air Service

TROPICAL PARTY AT CANAL POINT WOMAN'S CLUB

One of the most enjoyable social affairs of the season was the "Tropical Bridle" party given by the Canal Point Woman's club on Thursday evening, Nov. 15.

The spacious club room was converted into a lovely tropical garden. Large potted palms, crotons and ferns filled the corners and large spaces, while dainty lace-leaved plants and baskets of cut flowers of stinnias, roses and coral vine on stands interspersed these and added to the attractiveness of the room. Huge banana leaves, papaya plants, moss were used in the booths. Long bunches of bananas hung about. Large wicker trays filled with coconuts, grapefruit, oranges and other tropical fruits were displayed about the room.

Eight bridge tables were arranged around these plants. The lucky number was a lovely angel food cake, held by Mrs. Bryant Bowen.

Delicious refreshments of pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream and coffee were served buffet style, from booths decorated to fit the occasion, by Mrs. A. W. Fowler, Mrs. R. T. Gibbons and Mrs. Olin Cowart.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Kate Barwick, Mrs. W. H. Vann, Mrs. McCord and Mrs. Blackmon, and Mr. Barwick, Bryant Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. McCall.

These were donated by Pat Carroll, Hooks Gregory, Littman's Grill, Everglades News, Babblers News and Mrs. George Meade. The prizes were donated by Mr. Spencer.

CANAL POINT WOMAN'S CLUB HOLDS MEETING

The bi-monthly meeting of the Canal Point Woman's Club was held at the club house Monday afternoon, Nov. 12th, with Mrs. J. M. Elliott presiding.

The club house was artistically decorated with palms and flowers. The red, white and blue scheme was carried out in the decorations and refreshments.

Harold Rosenberg, chairman Red Cross Relief committee for the Canal Point area, explained the new rules of the 1935 fund-raising campaign and asked the help of the club. The members voted to cooperate with Mr. Rosenberg and to assist him in this worthy endeavor.

The "Tropical Party," given Thursday evening, Nov. 8th, was reported a success.

The club voted to let the Missionary Baptists of the community use the club house for Sunday School and church purposes.

Robert Chamberlain was granted the use of the building and piano for music classes.

The regular time of the meeting was changed from 10:00 o'clock to 3:30 o'clock, in order that the teachers who are members, might attend the club this evening.

Mrs. Bertha Allen and Mrs. C. G. Coburn will be joint hostesses for the Nov. 26th meeting. A very interesting program is planned and all members are urged to be present.

Moore J. W. Barrett and Gene Barwick served delicious hot coffee and dairy sandwiches to Messrs. W. A. H. Spear, R. E. Chastain, Sam Chastain, J. C. J. M. Elliott, A. W. Fowler, F. F. George, R. T. Gibbons, J. L. McCord, Frank Pope, H. L. Spear, H. Vann, and Daisy Young.

CANAL POINT SCOUTS HAVE SUCCESSFUL TRIP

Six Canal Point Scouts, under the direction of their Scoutmaster J. B. Cox, made a very successful trip to Lake Okechobee, near Lantana, last weekend.

The Scouts, making the trip were: Joe Tom Boynton, J. S. Barwick, J. W. Jones, Charles Jones, William Gibson, and J. B. Cox. Jack had the best record for test passing, having passed: Tenderfoot, First Class, Second Class, and Third Class Nature Study, Judging, and Map; Second Class Cooking; William made next best record with Second Class Cooking, and Third Class Nature Study, Judging, and Map; First Class Cooking, Judging, and Map; Second Class Nature Study, Judging, and Map; and Third Class Nature Study, Judging, and Map.

The Scouts returned Saturday night feeling fit as a fiddle after their overnight trip.

The local Troop charter expires Nov. 20th. Most of the boys have re-registered for 1935. At the last Scout meeting, on Tuesday night, Jack Power was sworn in as a Tenderfoot Scout.

The boys are busy repainting their hut, just to the rear of the water plant.

WINNER ROAST

A group of young people enjoyed a winter roast at Lantana's Estancia. Those enjoying the roast were: Misses Irene Tillman, Alice Jane Puse, Mildred Crass, Rose Edgeman, Raydon Hooley and Mrs. Ernest Thompson. Frank Tillman, Benny Brown, J. C. Moody, Paul and Porter Edgeman and Ernest Thompson.

Above, the Brazilian Clipper, in which, soon, an experimental transpacific flight will be made along left and right, are the Charles Kingsford-Smith and Capt. P. G. Taylor, British airmen whose latest venture has helped to spur the hope of transoceanic air service.

The British flight of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and Capt. P. G. Taylor from Australia to Hawaii via the Philippines and Honolulu bridge closer the day when huge passenger and mail planes will regularly span the Pacific Ocean, cutting down the time of transportation from tedious days to short, exciting hours.

In their venture, the intrepid Britons demonstrated the feasibility of one of the routes proposed for future transpacific transportation.

That the Pacific, like its sister ocean, was being considered in plans for transoceanic air service became known just recently when the Pan-American Airways announced that an experimental flight would be undertaken soon between the United States and China.

Pacific hops have been made before by military and private planes. But they were unencumbered by mail and express, or by surplus passengers. And they carried great loads of gasoline and fuel to insure reaching their goals.

The experimental flight will test the American's air prowess, the "Brazilian Clipper," or 8-44.

A 19-ton Sikorsky ship, powered by four 150-horsepower engines, the Clipper can accommodate 2000 pounds of mail and express, 42 passengers and a crew of 10.

Recently, the Clipper broke 10 world records for transport, in these "bird" distances. "In these trials, the huge craft averaged 150 miles an hour, at times attaining a 120-mile speed.

At the end of one 1250-mile non-stop flight, there was enough fuel to go another 200 miles—a fact that augurs well for the long first leg of the contemplated Pacific expedition.

PENTATIVE plans call for flying the Clipper from the Pacific coast to Hong Kong, China, in six jumps: the first one to Honolulu, a 2400-mile hop; then 1300 miles to the Midway Islands, 1200 miles to Wake Island, 1200 miles to 1100 to Manila and finally 750 to Hong Kong.

The total distance of 8450 miles. It is estimated, can be covered in three days and three nights—a feat only dreamed of a few years ago.

If the experimental success, and transoceanic air service is inaugurated, the following schedule are possible: United States to Honolulu, 32 hours; United States to the Philippines, two and a half days.

Planes will travel "down under" to Australia, it is believed, in less than three days. Twenty days to the East Indies.

The groundwork has already been laid. Pan-American Airways has developed an extensive air transport system in the Orient, with some 3000 miles of airways in operation. Extensive surveys of the United States-Africa routes have been made.

Terminal facilities on the Pacific coast are being studied by the company's technical staff headed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. And the company has the advantage of four years' experience in water air transportation operations in the Caribbean area.

As a further bulwark, the project may have the backing of the United States. Postmaster General E. A. Tamm has estimated that the Postoffice Department is watching the development of the test flight with great interest.

Special—To help make the worship hour more helpful and impressive we plan to have special music as a feature of the service. Thought for the week—"Look out and not in. Look up and not down. Look forward and not back. Then, Jesus has said."

—Edward Everett Hale. Summary—"Come to Sunday school." "Have Faith in God and Man." Contribute something to the worship and you will get something out of the worship hour. Think over the "thought for the week."

Beginning at 1 A. M. Monday, November 12, in

PALM BEACH AND MARTIN COUNTIES

It shall be unlawful for a distributor to sell or deliver milk for re-sale to a wholesale or licensed sub-dealer in other than what is generally known as a store bottle which shall have plainly stamped, printed, embossed or blown thereon "Palm Beach-Martin County Store Bottle," and a large figure of "5c" surrounded by a circle, followed or preceded by the word "Deposit," or substantially similar wording agreed upon by the majority of distributors in said area, which bottle or bottles shall always be charged for by the distributor at the rate of five cents deposit on each of said bottles, regardless of size, and such licensed wholesale or sub-dealer receiving milk in such bottles shall pay said deposit at the time said milk contained therein may be paid for, and the distributor delivering the same, or any distributor collecting the said equipment shall refund the said deposit of five cents upon the return of such bottle or bottles, it being contemplated that the sale of the milk at the prices fixed by the State shall only apply to the sale of the fluid milk or cream itself and shall not cover the cost of the bottle in which the same is sold or delivered, and a deposit of five cents shall be required by the distributor for such dealer or wholesale customer, unless and until the said bottle has been returned or redeemed, at the said price of five cents per bottle.

THE BOARD FURTHER STATES:

Each Dairymen delivering to retail trade must have his firm's name stamped on bottle and in no case shall use a bottle bearing another firm's name.

LAPP DISCUSSES BOY SCOUT PLAN

Lists Names of Boys Who Will Work to Earn Suits and Equipment

At a meeting of the Boy Scouts in Pahokee at the Scout hut Tuesday evening H. L. Lapp, boys' scout chairman of the Rotary club, discussed a plan which will allow each boy to earn his Scout suit and necessary equipment. Mr. Lapp pledged the names of the boys who planned themselves to co-operate with him.

Mr. Lapp's plan calls for the placing of boys in desirable positions in different business houses of the town at work which they can do efficiently during off hours from school and on Saturdays. His plan will allow those who so desire to earn money to buy their Scout equipment and also give them an opportunity to see actually how business is transacted. Several merchants have agreed to place Scouts under their supervision. A knot tying contest was held at the meeting with Johnny Thompson in charge. This contest was won by Snooka Spoorer.

INSPECTION MADE OF LAKE WORK

Great deal of pleasure in the inspection tour this week. The work has progressed to a point where all of the distance except a short distance can be reached by water. This gave more continuity to the view of the work and also added to the comfort and speed with which the trip might be made. The Welaka is today cutting through the last strip and joining its lover, the completed portion of the Spadaro contract, so that now the entire waterway is open.

Of particular interest and beauty, according to the visitors, was the trip down the winding Canals, the beautiful scenery and abundance of wild life including many tropical birds and talligators provided an unusual setting for the trip.

The trip of the visitors was most pleasant, inasmuch as it is the last of Colonel Hannan's official inspections and the first of Colonel

R. H. is also the first trip of the division engineer. During his recent promotion from Major to Lieutenant-Colonel, Mr. Nelson, a civilian engineer, is connected with the Jacksonville office and has been in direct supervision over the levee project since its inception and is a frequent visitor here.

Smith Sub-Lets Five Culvert Contracts

The Paul Smith Construction company this week sub-let five of the six drainage culverts which they were awarded in a contract several weeks ago. Two of the culverts near Bacom Point will be built by the Welaka Construction Co. of Tampa and three above Canal Point will be built by the Smith Construction company of Chicago.

The Smith company will complete culvert No. 13, located just north of the levee. The other contractors went to work early this week moving their equipment on the job in an effort to have all culverts completed in the specified time.

SECOND PERIOD CAMPAIGN ENDS

drawing near. It will be here before you know it and for that reason not a minute should be lost by a contestant, for a minute lost now can never be regained.

Big Vote Period
The last few days of the second big vote period are here. The more you know it and for that reason not a minute should be lost by a contestant, for a minute lost now can never be regained.

This campaign with just two more days to go of the big vote, will prove to be an unmitigated man-ner just how contestants stand. Of course, all contestants cannot be in first place all the time, but the really live workers can always be in the running.

No one at present has the Ford won, neither is anyone hopelessly beaten. Just a good bunch of subscriptions turned in to the account of one of the contestants would change the entire complexion of the affair and furnish a new leader in the race. In fact, a few long range subscriptions, turned in now, might be the very ones needed to win this prize for some wide awake and ambitious worker.

Enlarge this list—Two 5-year new subscriptions now earn 270,000 votes, ten of them would increase your total vote 1,350,000 votes. Twenty new one-year subscriptions now earn 180,000, after November 19, these votes will take a decided drop. Get going, get in those "promises" now, do not put it off until next week, next week may be too late. Remember, it is anybody's race, you can win if you will.

Rosa Manga Quits Restaurant-Business

Rosa Manga has gone out of the restaurant business in Belle Glade. For six years she operated the Glades Hotel and Cafe in the Federal building, and now she has retired to take a rest, she and her husband John Manga having erected a dwelling house to which they have moved.

A few weeks ago Mr. Todder converted one section of the hotel building, formerly used as a store, into rooms for lodgers, and this week he took over the other part of the hotel building from the Mangas. Rooms in the original hotel section of the building have been repainted. The restaurant rooms will also be converted into sleeping rooms to meet the demand brought in the bean shipping season by the presence of transient.

Mrs. Manga took over the Glades Hotel and Cafe six years ago from a Greek restaurant man who came out from West Palm Beach and ran it a year and then moved to Pahokee. Here was the leading eating place in Belle Glade for several years and she entertained the notables from all over the country who visited the upper Glades.
